

Linux

How do I get the disk usage of a directory including hidden directories/files?

Using `du` with a wildcard would not normally include "hidden" directories/files (those starting with a dot). But you can show the usage with this simple command.

```
du -sch .[!.*] * *
```

Unique solution ID: #1079

Author: n/a

Last update: 2015-08-24 22:17